OBREGON ON WAY TO MEET GEN. SCOTT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., April 27.—General Gabriel Gavira, Mexican commander at Juarez, informed the International News Service today that Minister of War Obregon had arrived at Chihuahua on his way to the border to confer with General Hugh L. Scott. General Gavira predicted a quick settlement of the American-Mexican crisis at the coming conference, which he said would be held at Juarez.

"Everything is going to be all right when General Obregon arrives," said General Gavira. "He and the American officers will be able to straighten out the differences between the United States and Mexico. We feel that with his coming everything will be quickly settled."

General Gavira is a staunch supporter of Obregon and rose to power with the present war minister, who appears to have wrested Mexican supremacy from Venustiano Carranza, reported in advices from Mexico City to have fled to Vera Cruz.

The chief point to be discussed at the Obregon-Scott conference, as was stated in these dispatches yesterday, is the withdrawal of the American troops in Mexico. It was learned today, however, that the Mexican war minister will ask an explanation of the fact that the expedition sent to hunt down Francisco Villa has been considerably increased since the de facto government demanded the recall of the expedition.

At present there are at least 17,000 troops south of the border. It is understood that all the 2,300 reinforcements which were hastened to Columbus have crossed the border into Mexican territory.

General Obregon is also expected to ask assurances that the United States lend its full aid to the Mexican government by stamping out plots hatched on American soil and also effectively halt the operations of gun-runners and ammunition smugglers who have supplied the Mexican revolutionists with arms to fight the recognized authorities in the southern republic. Mexican officials claim that they have given the American authorities adequate information about these operations to enable them to crush these miscreants, but that filibustering has continued without interruption.

The point the Mexican officials now make is this:

"If the Americans fail to stop these unlawful acts in their own country, by what right do they demand permission to act across the border against the outlaws who have been aided and abetted from American soil with American arms and ammunition."

One of the cases in point is that of General Salazar, the Mexican revolutionist, who went into Mexico after the Mexican authorities had requested the Americans to watch him closely. He is now reported to have gathered a formidable band, fully equipped, about him south of the border town of Ojinaga.

BALMVILLE HOME LIFE WAS LIVELY

Sensational Charges and Counter-Charges Figure in Differences of Newburgh Dairyman and Wife Thirty Years His Junior—$30 a Week Alimony Granted.

Harrowing in the extreme was the treatment accorded him by his wife, 32 years younger than himself, as attested by Joseph V. Jordan, aged 61, and head of the Hudson Valley Dairy Company of Newburgh, whose application for a limited divorce against Eloise Jordan was heard Wednesday before Justice Morschauser at White Plains.

They were married in September, 1914, after having met on the board walk at Atlantic City, and, according to the plaintiff, he has nearly walked the plank a number of times since. The parties reside in Balmville.

On one occasion, he asserts, it was necessary for him to lock himself in his room as he is of slight build while his wife weighs 175 pounds. At their home in Balmville, he alleges his wife threw their wedding ring in a cuspidor and threw a flower pot at his head. On their trip through the West Indies, he alleges, she drank "planters' cocktails," a deadly beverage, with strange men and at one time sat in the lap of an unknown man seated upon a snow-covered bench in the park on Riverside Drive.

Mrs. Jordon charges that her husband went on sprees and was an absolute brute, treating her with violence. Graham Witschief appears for Mrs. Jordan in her counter-suit for a separation. Henry Kohl appears for Jordan. The court allowed Mrs. Jordan $30 a week alimony pending determination of the suit, and $650 counsel fees.

DUBLIN IS UNDER GUNS OF WARSHIPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 27.—Dublin has been brought under the guns of British warships that have anchored in Dublin Bay. It is believed, however, that the military authorities have the revolutionary situation so well under control in the Irish capital that it will not be necessary to fire upon the city.

Reports that the rebels had sacked part of Dublin was given official cognizance when Premier Asquith announced that there was no reason to believe that the banks were unsafe. The government and financial institutions in the Irish capital are guarded by troops and machine guns have been mounted upon the roofs of many buildings to sweep the streets.

The proclamation stating that civil law has been suspended makes it evident that the Sinn Feiners who took part in the uprising will be tried for sedition and some of the leaders may be tried for treason.

Official information this morning was optimistic although the government's policy is not to try to disguise the full seriousness of the situation. The military authorities have made progress in putting down the uprising. The troops are making many arrests and all of the county of Dublin is being disarmed.

Houses are being searched and a number of newspapers have been suppressed by the lord lieutenant.

The case of Sir Roger Casement, the Irish nobleman who was captured while trying to smuggle arms into Ireland, is closely interwoven with the present rebellion and the armed clash in the streets of Dublin may have considerable influence with the government in relation to Sir Roger.

As a result of the present high state of feeling the trial of the Irish knight may be put off for some time, or at least until the unrest in southern Ireland has subsided somewhat.

The Express suggests the possibility that Sir Roger may be beheaded if found guilty but in other quarters the belief exists that it would be wiser to treat Sir Roger with leniency as was the case in South Africa when General de Wet the leader of the Boer rebels was captured.

Sir Roger's case is difficult, however, as regards the political aspect. It is understood that papers, implicating prominent Irishmen, were found on his person.

From the official reports and fragmentary unofficial reports, it is believed that the total casualties in Dublin and Dublin county during the fighting on Monday and Tuesday were at least 100.

It is believed that the government feared the uprising might spread into civil war was shown by the speed with which troops and artillery was moved into Ireland from England. There are said to be at least 200,000 soldiers under arms in all parts of Ireland at the present time, and preparation have been made by the war office to send more if needed.

In official circles belief is expressed that tranquility will be restored in southern Ireland very soon, although the uprising will leave behind it more bitter hatred than existed before and in its wake will follow a condition of affairs that will make it necessary for England to maintain strong bodies of troops in the island for any future emergency.

Lord Wimborne, the lord-lieutenant of Ireland, is making every effort to restore peace and he will probably have the help of Augustine Birrell, secretary for Ireland, very soon. Mr. Birrell's mission to Ireland, it is understood, is to study the situation at first hand to to parley with leaders of the Separatists.

The Irish situation is holding first place in the public mind and is taking a prominent place in the deliberations of parliament.

Sir Edward Carson, the Irish Unionist, who threatened to precipitate a civil war in Ireland at the time the Home Rule Bill was under consideration in parliament, is coming in for strong censure for the part he played in widening the breach in Ireland. The Daily News declares that Sir Edward is largely to blame for the present situation. On the other hand Sir Edward is attacking the government with renewed vigor and his supporters are claiming that the present state of affairs will prove the doorway through which Carson will enter a strong position in the cabinet.

There was a conference among cabinet members during the morning at which the Irish revolt was discussed. It was expected that Premier Asquith would issue an official statement later in the day giving further details of the uprising and plans which the government have taken to cope with it and restore peace.

Fined $5 for Fighting.

Wednesday evening Policeman Charles J. Murphy arrested Bartley Joyce for fighting with another man in Sharkey's saloon on Broadway, corner of East Union street. This morning Joyce pleaded guilty and fined $5 by Recorder Lang, who informed Joyce if this had been the first offense he would have been inclined to be more lenient.

TENT CATERPILLAR CONTEST RETURNS

The tent caterpillar egg gathering contest conducted by the Farm Bureau this season was perhaps more successful than that of last season, although but one-sixth of the number of eggs was gathered this year as compared with last season. It was more of a success because the eggs gathered this year were far more hard to secure, the number having been reduced by last year's strenuous campaign. A total of 771,000 egg masses were gathered last year while this year's grand total is but 133,879, a difference of 637,121. Although the number gathered was much smaller the school children worked harder to secure these than they did last year of the larger number.

GASOLINE IS GOING HIGHER.

Lack of Storage Stocks May Cause Advance is Claim.

There was no change in the price of gasoline in New York yesterday, the wholesale rate of 24c gallon, established almost two months ago continued in force, while the retailers maintained a charge of from 27c to 31c. The president of a large independent oil refining company was reported to have said that the price would advance shortly, and that the only solution of the situation lay in the perfection of a kerosene carburetor, which he believed could be easily accomplished for commercial vehicles. He was quoted as follows:

"We will start the summer with practically no gasoline stored, and I believe nearly all other refiners are in the same position. This is one patent reason way the price of gasoline is high and likely to mount higher during the summer.

"The most impartial and thorough investigation of the gasoline situation could not, in my judgement, lead to any conclusion other than that the price has been determined by the law of supply and demand. In former years producers emerged from the winter with their storage tanks filled with gasoline, ready to meet the heavy summer demand. During the past winter the oil was marketed as soon as produced and huge quantities of kerosene were stored instead.

"Another good reason for the high price is the fact that the gasoline content of all grades of crude petroleum has been steadily declining in the past few years.

CATTLE OWNERS WERE CARELESS

Buried Calves That Died of Highly Contagious Diseases and May Have Infected the Soil.

Many dairymen in Ulster county lost calves last season from the disease known commonly as black leg. This is especially true in southern Ulster. In many cases the calves were not properly disinfected and properly buried and there is a possibility of the disease breaking out again this season on the same farms. Not knowing the seriousness of the disease the owners in some cases placed the dead animals in the pasture lots. This disease first comes from the soil in the pastures which are infected and also [illegible] dead bodies of the animals and may be carried for a distance in running water and be widely spread.

In one instance where this was done the owner was afraid to turn out his cattle in the pasture lot this spring, knowing the danger which there was in such an action. The disease may be easily controlled by vaccination and black leg vaccine is distributed free to stock owners from the United States upon application to the Pathological Laboratory of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, D. C. The vaccination may be done by any veterinarian and the cost will be low. With this easy means of control there is no reason why the disease, symptomatic anthrax, should exist in Ulster county.

Elmira Man Latest Claimant for Gas Substitute Honors.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Elmira, N. Y., April 27.—E. D. Lewis, a local inventor, says he can make a motor perform the same function as gasoline with one ounce of sulphuric acid to each gallon of water. The acid can be purchased for less than a cent an ounce. Lewis would equip the regular gasoline tank with two electrodes, one positive and the other negative. These, connected with a storage battery, would generate hydrogen gas, which, Mr. Lewis says, will pass through any carburetor into the motor as effectively as gasoline. An open-air vent in the tank would give an outlet for too high a pressure of gas and backfire would be quenched by the water.

ALL IRELAND NOW UNDER MARTIAL LAW

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 27—All Ireland is now under martial law.

Premier Asquith announced today in the house of commons that martial law had been extended from Dublin and Dublin county to include the entire island.

The announcement of the premier indicated that the rebellion was spreading and that the most drastic measures were necessary.

It is believed that more troops will be sent from England to Ireland forthwith.

The general belief that the rebellion had grown beyond Dublin county was borne out by the following statement made by the premier in commons late in the afternoon:

"Situation in Ireland is still serious. The revolutionary movement is spreading, especially in the west. The British troops in Ireland are being reinforced adequately to deal with the movement."

A contingent of British troops has been sent from Wales to reinforce the English soldiers in Ireland.

Public buildings in Dublin are still held by the rebels, Mr. Asquith said.

Street fighting is in progress.

It is feared that the casualties will be three hundred or more.

In announcing the continuance of fighting in the Irish capital the premier said:

"The rebels are still in possession of important public buildings.

"Street fighting is continuing.

"There will be a full inquiry as to the causes and responsibility of the movement."

General Sir John Maxwell, commander of the British forces in Ireland, has been given full powers to suppress the rebellion, it was announced.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, and John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist, both expressed the hope in commons that no political capital would be made out of the Irish rebellion.

Church Land Given Back.

Among the recent real estate transfers in the town of Shandaken is that of the trustees of St. Bathelomew Chapel at Big Indian Valley to Warren Johnson, to a parcel of land situated near Slide Mountain. The above parcel of land was given to the trustees several years ago by Mr Johnson for church purposes and a neat little chapel was built by the members of the church. The condition of the gift of the land was that should there be no services held in the chapel for a certain length of time, the property was to revert back to Mr. Johnson. Hence the transfer.

TROJAN SAFE IN HER USUAL BERTH

Wild Rumors That the Boat Had Sunk at Various Places or Had Been Lost are Without the Slightest Foundation.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 27.—After having been put by rumor at the bottom of the Hudson river, ashore near Saugerties, and having been "seen" sinking off Stony Point, the People's Line steamboat Trojan, bound from Albany to New York, steamed into her slip at Pier 32 at the foot of Canal street this morning as blithely as she ever did at the end of a run on the Hudson river.

All the towns along the Hudson were kept in a furore of excitement early today by the report that the Trojan had been sunk or grounded about 1:30 o'clock this morning. The wildest reports were circulated and nothing definite could be learned. The report, it is said, originated from Ossining.

Don't Spread the Dust when You Sweep—Collect It

"Making the dust fly" certainly describes the usual method of sweeping. Even dusting caps don't really keep the hair clean and your throat becomes literally choked.

But this is all past now. There is a better way to sweep—a dustless way. And it's so simple too. Just sprinkle a little Nomordust across the floor and then sweep it ahead of you as you go.

Nomordust holds the dust and keeps it from spreading. It enables you to get the room much cleaner too, for you don't spread the dust to another part of the room with every stroke of the broom.

With Nomordust you can clean any room in half the time with half the effort, and you only have to sweep half as often, because you get your rooms so much cleaner every time you sweep.

As one housekeeper expressed it, "It is just like having an extra maid"—she has so much time for other things. Yet Nomordust costs but a few pennies a month. Get a 10c can to-day at your favorite grocer—he'll refund your money if you're not more than pleased.

WAYS OF COOKING RICE.

It is interesting to note the various ways common rice is served in the various countries.

Spanish Rice. — Fry one large onion, chopped with two tomatoes, add a cupful of stock and salt and pepper to taste. Cover and let simmer ten minutes; then add two cupfuls of boiled rice, mix with a tablespoonful of butter and serve very hot.

Another—Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan and when melted add half a cupful of rice and stir it for 15 minutes, occasionally; then add one chopped onion, one chopped tomato, a clove of garlic and cover with water or vegetable stock; season highly with salt and pepper, cover and let rice cook slowly for 40 minutes.

Dutch Rice Pudding.—Mix a cupful of rice, two cupfuls of milk, one tablespoonful of butter, the yolks of four eggs, the juice of a lemon, one cupful of sugar, a grating of nutmeg, a half cupful of chopped raisins, half a cupful of nuts and the whites of the eggs, beaten stiff. Bake in a buttered pudding dish until brown.

Milanaise Rice.—Put two tablespoonfuls of butter into a stewpan, and when hot add a slice of onion, chopped; cook without browning, then add a half cupful of rice and a quart of white stock. Cook until the rice is tender and the liquid absorbed; add two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese and salt if needed. Stir gently with a fork; turn into a serving dish and sprinkle the top with a little more cheese, then serve as a vegetable.

Swedish Rice With Codfish.—Cook together a cupful of rice in a cupful of water and four cupfuls of milk for half an hour. Remove from the heat; add a cupful of rich milk, two well-beaten eggs and three cupfuls of shredded codfish. Season well and bake in a moderate oven 40 minutes. Serve with drawn butter sauce and lemon quarters, garnished with parsley.

A mixture of cooked rice, hard-cooked eggs, white sauce and cheese, makes a most satisfying luncheon dish.

Labor Saved.

If mother has several small boys this plan is a good time saver. When making trousers insert loops of round white cord such as is used in corsets, instead of working buttonholes in waistbands, and leave the facing wide enough to turn back; insert the loops and stitch down with the extra width. This serves for buttonholes and takes much less time.

The five year old son of Charles Costello of Port Ewen had a narrow escape from serious injury on Wednesday afternoon when he was run down by one of the automobile delivery trucks of the L. B. Van Wagenen Company. At the time the machine was running slowly and when in front of the brick school at the top of the Port Ewen hill the little chap darted across the road. He was struck by the mud guard and hurled to the ground. The driver picked up the boy and hurried him to this city where he was examined by Dr. J. J. Simonds at his office on the Strand, who found that no bones were broken but that the boy was slightly bruised.

BRIDGE HEARING NEXT WEEK, MAYBE

Delegation to Try to Find Out What the Ostensible Head of the Highway Department Means.

Efforts to get in communication with State Highway Commissioner Duffey so as to set a date when Ulster county residents who want to know why the Sleightsburgh bridge plans cannot be revised or other means taken for the construction of the bridge have been successful, and it is probable that a day will be selected during the early part of next week.

How large a delegation will go from Kingston will depend on the prompt action of organizations which have taken up the matter in appointing committees or else arranging to be notified so that everyone who wants to be heard can make arrangements for the trip. There are many people in Ulster county who would like to be heard on the matter and to express freely their opinion of the attitude taken by the state highway department, as well as the grade of efficiency prevailing there which required that more than a year elapsed in the preparation of plans, advertising for bids and determination by the department that the bridge cannot be built.

Senator Charles W. Walton and Chairman Philip Elting, of the Republican county committee, will head the delegation from Ulster county, and the organizations and many individuals now on record as having expressed a determination to go to Albany can either arrange with them as to the time, which will be dependent on Commissioner Duffey's convenience, or else make their own arrangements for taking the trip.

The fact that the state of New York and its officials have promised repeatedly that the bridge should be built, especially officials of the State Highway Department, apparently has been disregarded by the present state highway management, and many people in Ulster county, as well as the people of all sections of the Hudson river valley, want to be informed on this subject. Commissioner Duffey is the ostensible head of the highway department, having been put in office to succeed John N. Carlisle, who was thoroughly familiar with the plans and promises of the state and its officials.

Therefore, the people of the entire Hudson river valley, as well as automobilists in all parts of the state who have been interested in the bridge since its construction was first promised, want to know the reason why the state highway department is unable to overcome the obstacle it has stated to the bridge, although it has been able in the past to overcome other obstacles. From the general discussion that has arisen over the state highway department's announcement, it is very evident that the people have been keeping a close watch on the department for some time and their Missouri-like attitude is nothing new. The bridge proposition will be a test of the good faith of the state highway department.

Discussion and criticism is not confined to residents of Ulster county. Traveling men, tourists and hundreds of residents of different parts of the state have expressed their opinions forcibly on the subject. Discussion covers a wide field and criticism is not of a kind in which any public official could find any comfort. Most officials would be deeply ashamed to have the criticism which has been created by the Sleightsburgh bridge flim-flam directed to them, and in every case the criticism appears to be backed by undisputed facts.

GARDEN CUES.

Plant Seed on Cloudy Day and Water Ground With a Spray.

Always select a rather still, cloudy day to plant the seed. If the day is windy some of it (which is very fine) will be blown about, and this must be avoided. After sowing, water the ground with the fine spray in the nozzle of the hand watering can. Never use a garden hose for this purpose or you will injure much of the seed.

A garden that is composed entirely of blooming plants must be planted in a sunny situation. Not even a branch of some tall tree must cast a single shadow across it. Where the shadow falls there will be few flowers.

In the beginning it will require a certain care. The plants will spring up in close [illegible] and must be thinned out. Each plant, if it is to develop to its full quota of beauty, must have room for individual development. When thinning out your garden give the plants you do not need to your neighbor or to some friend. This may encourage her to make a garden.

For the first few weeks it may be rather hard to distinguish weeds from flowers, but in a short time the former can be detected and uprooted easily.

Keep down all weeds and bear in mind that they are usually more vigorous growers and have stronger constitutions than other flowers, and unless they are destroyed you will have a garden of weeds, with only here and there a few very indifferent plants bearing even more indifferent blooms.

Before sowing the seed make a rough sketch of the plot. This will prevent a clash of colors when the blooming season comes. Unless you take this precaution you are apt to have brilliant yellow poppies growing next to red verbenas and other garish combinations.

As a second equally important reason, every plant has its own height, and if you would see all your posies you must have the low growing varieties along the borders and the tall ones in the background. So plant the hollyhocks in the back beyond the phlox, which are not so tall, and the sweet alyssum in front of the garden pinks for the same reason. Your plan may be ever so crude, but it takes only a few minutes and will eliminate future confusion and disappointments.

Baked Crabs.

Mix with the contents of a can of deviled crab meat, breadcrumbs or pounded crackers, pepper and salt to taste. Mince some cold ham. Have the baking pan well buttered, place therein first a layer of crab meat prepared as above, then a layer of minced ham, and so on, alternating until the pan is filled. Cover the top with crumbs and bits of butter and bake.

A Young Fashion.

Plaids are shown for children as usual, and many of them are very attractive. These are often made into three piece suits which consist of a jumper scalloped at the bottom, a plaited skirt, also of the plaid, with a detachable waist of white French linen.

Beautiful Hair.

If the hair is inclined to be dry it should have a little oil rubbed on the scalp once or twice a week. Massage will loosen the scalp and increase the circulation, and the nourishment of the hair is dependent upon the blood supply.

Shell of the Snail.

The snail's horny shell serves to protect its soft body against numerous foes. Slugs are simply snails that live a retired life and consequently need no covering at all. The shell of the snail is built up from lime in the plants on which it feeds, and they are never found on soil which contains no lime.

SELLING DEAD LETTERS.

One Postoffice Custom That Teaches a Moral Lesson.

Twice a year in Washington they hold a curious auction. It is called the dead letter sale, but in reality it is the sale of packages that have been sent to the dead letter office because of deficient postage or wrong directions.

After these packages have been held for a certain length of time, in order to give senders or owners an opportunity to claim them, they are sold at public auction.

It is often a strange and pathetic collection. Most of the articles are cheap enough, although valuable things are not lacking. But who can estimate the intrinsic value of some of these lost gifts—the time and sacrifice and love they respect? How many lives were robbed of a happiness that rightfully belonged to them because of the sender's carelessness or ignorance!

Is there not a parable lurking somewhere about this strange auction? How many lives are there today that hold the possibility of gifts for other lives, yet through carelessness or ignorance or indifference are robbing both themselves and others and are carelessly making "dead letters" of gifts for which eager eyes and hearts are longing?

There is no sale of these dead gifts. No one has any chance at them. They are doubly lost—lost to the one who should have used them and to the world that needs them. What a pitiful waste of power and joy!—Baltimore American.

AFRICAN COCOA PORTERS.

Head Loads and Barrel Rolling Feats of the Natives.

Unusual and interesting is the spectacle in the African Gold Coast country of the transport of cocoa, the bulk of the inland produce being carried by porters to the railroad. Sometimes the roadways as far as the eye can see are one long line of cocoa bags on the heads of hundreds of carriers.

This carrying trade has produced an extraordinary flow of free labor into the whole hinterland of the Gold Coast. At Adawso, a buying station nearly fifteen miles from the rail head, one firm alone employs in the season 3,000 carriers, who cover the distance to the rail station at Pakro once and frequently twice a day with a 150 pound load of cocoa.

Many of the native farmers within thirty miles of Accra prefer to sell their cocoa at a higher price at the port of embarkation and so have created the interesting system of "barrel rolling." In the cocoa season strongly bound and ponderous casks are filled with the beans and rolled to the seashore.

Traveling along the somewhat primitive roads one meets at frequent intervals perspiring natives struggling with the barrel, which, filled with cocoa, weighs considerably over a quarter of a ton. As a rule, three men roll two casks, one relieving the other. Occasionally the loss, due to accidents, is considerable.—Argonaut.

Henley's Sufferings.

In fifty-four years of his life—he was born in 1849—W. E. Henley, the writer, never knew what a day's perfect health meant. When little more than a boy he was attacked by a disease which necessitated the amputation of one foot. He was told later by the doctors that the sacrifice of the other leg was necessary were he to live. The fame of Dr. Lister had reached Henley, and, penniless and almost friendless, he determined to try Edinburgh infirmary. Thither he traveled third class in physical suffering such as few have known, and when he reached the infirmary his whole possessions amounted to a few shillings. His confidence in Lister was justified, and his leg was saved. He was and remained a cripple, but neither hopeless nor helpless. His astounding nimbleness under these conditions suggested to Robert Louis Stevenson the physical sketch of John Silver.

Halley's Achievements.

Edmund Halley was a very great man. He was not only the first to predict correctly the return of a comet, that which is now known by his name, but also—before Newton had announced his results to any one—arrived at the conclusion that the attraction of gravitation probably varied inversely as the square of the distance. While these and other important achievements of his are well known, it seems to have been forgotten that Halley devised a method of determining the age of the ocean from chemical denudation.

Indifference.

"Which do you prefer, summer or winter?"

"I've no preference," replied Mr. Growcher. "It is just as depressing to me whether I put in a large portion of my time reading about the hottest day ever or the coldest day ever."—Washington Star.

Heavy Hearts.

"Thoroughly—that is, I know when it won't run there is something the matter with it."—Detroit Free Press.

Wisdom in Liberty.

The United States is the only country where one can say offensive things about the executive and go unpunished, which may have much to do with the traditional sweetness of the American disposition, fermenting opinions of those in authority being promptly uncorked and as soon forgotten.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 27, 1916.

It is a debatable question whether discussions at the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission in New York city over railroad freight rates on milk or discussion of the milk question at meetings of the Kingston board of health have the greater educational value. It has developed that the freight rate charged by some railroads for cream is twenty per cent higher than for milk. To the question why this difference existed one general freight agent replied that cream is heavier than milk, in answer to which it was pointed out that the agent was mistaken—cream is lighter since it rises to the top. Later the explanation was given that cream is a luxury, selling at a higher price than milk and that value plays a part in determining the freight rate of commodities One thing reasonably certain about all the discussions on milk that have taken place in the past four or five years is that the actual consumers who pay for the milk are not consulted Officials consult or combat shippers, producers, dealers, middlemen, railroads, expressmen, freight handlers, tin can manufacturers, veterinarians and experts of all kinds, and while all the discussion and all the action is announced to be for the ultimate benefit of the consumer, the consumer apparently is considered too incompetent to be taken in anybody's confidence.

Next in extent to the Ulster County Gazette fake which repeatedly has been exposed by The Freeman, is the fable that the position on the hands of a dummy clock used as a sign by jewelers is due to the fact that the painter of the first of such watches learned of President Lincoln's death at that hour and painted in the hands to eighteen minutes past eight o'clock. Occasionally the story is varied by another fable to the effect that the hands mark the hour of Lincoln's death. Lincoln's assassination occurred in 1865 The fact that dummy clocks with the hands pointing to the hour mentioned existed as early as 1840 does not prevent the story from continuing in circulation any more than the fact that Lincoln's death occurred at twenty-two minutes past seven o'clock The hands when painted at eighteen minutes past eight o'clock make a well balanced design and allow the best opportunity for advertising on the face of the watch The Lincoln story fake was the result of a talk between two New York newspaper reporters many years ago, one of whom contended that a nimble lie will bound about for ages, and he started this fake on its career to prove it. Shakespeare certainly was right when he said that "The evil that men do lives after them" The ordinary daily products of the Busy Street Liar, augumented by the deliberate lies put in circulation for the purpose of influencing politics, legislation finance and a host of other enterprises often survive truth and combat truth at every turn When careless historians incorporate them in written history their chance for longevity becomes greater, for it is only once in many years that a historian seeks to render a service to posterity by exploding fables. The works of such historians, however, are treasured above all other books

New Jersey not only has some admirable laws, but also some which bear the ear-marks of antiquity. It is a combination law under which Rev. Sadie S. Darling, pastor of the First Progressive Spiritualist Church of Newark, recently was arrested The law in question provides prosecution of anyone who pretends to exercise witchcraft. The Rev. Sadie is not a witch. Neither is she a regularly ordained minister, but she holds a diploma from the International Spiritualist Union of Omaha, Neb., and she calls her art psychometry. Once she told an inquiring mother that the cause of her baby's stomach ache was a penny the child had swallowed. The mother had not missed the penny, but eventually she was able to spend it. The Rev Sadie was able to tell about the penny merely by holding the mother's hand Pretension to exercise witchcraft, conjuration, sorcery, enchantment, skill or knowledge in any occult or crafty science to discover the manner in which goods or chattels supposed to have been stolen may be found is a punishable offense under the New Jersey law. Reading these terms recalls the Colonial days of America, when witchcraft was regarded solemnly as an established fact and was punishable by death. New York never imposed such drastic punishment but it was popular in Massachusetts, and among the offenses punishable by death under the general laws of Massachusetts for many years, witchcraft was mentioned second, idolatry being first. After witchcraft came blasphemy, murder, poisoning and other offenses, most of which merit severe punishment It is strange to consider that pretension to witchcraft should still find believers enough to require statutory punishment for the pretenders.

PLUTARCH PASTOR ON STRIKE.

Only One Mercenary Shepherd in Sixty Years.

A pastor at Plutarch recently went on strike for more pay, according to the Plutarch correspondent of the New Paltz Times, in the following item

Rev. F. A. Hawley of Modena preached a very interesting Easter sermon on Sunday to a large congregation His many friends were glad to welcome him and his wife. The choir rendered special Easter music The church was decorated with potted plants and ferns It is hoped that Mr Hawley will be able to preach to us again soon as we are without a minister this year. The one sent to Esopus and Plutarch says he can not preach for what we have been paying former ministers and hiring a horse to come here, so he went on a strike for more pay, but the people feel they have been doing all they can so we will have to do the best we can We have had preaching service here for nearly sixty years and this is the first minister we ever had who only preached for the money he got out of us, or at least he is the only one to tell us so We hope there are not many like him We hope to have preaching nearly every Sunday and will trust in the one who is ready to help those who trust him.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Matilda's titled husband is not her equal." "No, but he's her peer."—Baltimore American.

"What would you recommend for somnambulism, doctor?" "Well, you might try insomnia."—Boston Transcript.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "are we going to celebrate Shakespeare's birthday?" "If you wish." "I think we ought to. We'll buy a statuette of Shakespeare and put a wreath around its head and then spend the evening at the movies."—Washington Star.

"Do you see that seedy looking man over there with the preoccupied air?" "Oh, yes." "Well, he's a statistician. He can tell you how many toothpicks, laid end to end, it would take to reach from New York to San Francisco" "Marvelous!" "Yes, but he can't tell you where next meal is coming from."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"You can't make me believe a college education gits you anything,' said the young man who had won two medals for fox-trotting. "Still I always thought college fellows was awful swell," replied the girl. "Nothin' doin'! We got one of them in our office that always says 'whom' and notwithstandin', and say, I heard the boss callin' him down today the worst I ever seen What's the use known' them kind of words if you can't talk back?"—Judge

In These War Times.

C. D. Langhorne of Richmond, Va., to whom recent events have given a near relationship to the peerage was at breakfast in a London hotel, a year or more ago, and was attended by a good specimen of the stolid, obsequious British waiter According to Mr. Langhorne the following colloquy took place "Waiter, sir, I have some fish this morning" "Fish sir, yes sir." "What kind of fish have you?" "All kinds of fish, sir." "Have you any herring?" "Erring, sir? No, sir, no 'erring, sir" "Well, what kind of fish can I have?" "Bloaters, sir" "What is a bloater?" "An 'erring, sir"—New York Evening Post.

The Child's Logic.

The ruthless logic of the child is admirably expressed in a story which is going the round of the press in Ireland A school inspector visiting a certain school demanded from the children how many pips were contained in an apple Failing to obtain a satisfactory answer he sententiously demanded how, seeing all the apples they had eaten, the children had failed to notice so simple a fact. After school had been dismissed one of the teachers, crossing the yard, noticed a group in a corner, where the examination was being faithfully rehearsed The tone and manner of the inspector were being perfectly reproduced It was clear that the results were as unsatisfactory as they had been in the school house "An' how," demanded the mock inspector from a particularly small girl "can yeh expect to grow up a credit to yer family, when yeh can't tell how many feathers there be in a hen—an' yer mother keepin' chickens?"

On the Stage.

"Mister Interlocutor, can you tell me why a room full of married people is like an empty room?" "No, Brother Bones I cannot Will you tell us why?" Because there is not a single person in it" "Very good, Mr Bones And what have you to say this evening, Mr Tambo?" 'Can you tell how many eggs a man can eat on an empty stomach?" "No, Mr Tambo I cannot Will you tell us how many?' "One, because after that his stomach wouldn't be empty" After the smoke has cleared away and the blood has been mopped up from the stage Mr. Letts Lynchum will render that pathetic ballad Ten Million Squirrels Have Starved to Death Since Henry Ford's Ship Steamed Away'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Meant Well, But—

Viscount French of Ypres often tells an amusing story about a French review that he attended a good many years ago

General French—as he then was—attended the men's dinner in camp one day and as he puffed on his cigar he noticed that 300 young Frenchmen had nothing to smoke whatever.

Accordingly he sent to his tent for three boxes of Havanas and these were quickly distributed among the troops A rare treat, truly

To show their gratitude the soldiers, without consulting with their segeants, lined up in two files, marched toward the English general, and raising their right hands to their caps and holding their lighted cigars in their left hands, they shouted as with one voice:

'Vive la Russie!"

They had mistaken the uniform.

The Anxious One.

Dr Anna Howard Shaw discussing the divorce evil, said in Philadelphia "Love is the best foundation for marriage, of course. But common sense keeps it cool—and cool things, of course, keep the best. But selfishness kills all— and some married people are selfish as the lady to whom the palmist said: 'These lines alas tell me that you are destined to wear widow's weeds.' 'Oh dear me!' said the lady. 'For how long?'"—Argonaut.

WHY SCHEBILSKIE WAS ARRESTED

Further Light on His Tale of the Red Headed Siren—He Wanted Her Arrested Because They Were Thrown Out of a Saloon.

Further light on the experience of John Schebilskie of Jarrold street with a red headed siren was furnished by the testimony of Policeman O'Neil, who arrested John on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, at the trial of the case on Wednesday afternoon, to which time Recorder Lang had adjourned it after hearing John's story of his meeting with the siren and the theft by her of his new Easter "lid." At the close of the case it might be added that John was found guilty and fined $5, which he paid.

From the story told by Officer O'Neil he first met John about 10 o'clock Tuesday evening. At that time John was carrying a good sized cargo of joy water, according to the officer. John asked the officer if he would not arrest a red headed girl, and when questioned as to why he wanted her arrested he said that he had gone in a saloon with her, and both had been thrown out.

"Why were you thrown out?" asked the officer

"Because I would not buy her a drink," replied John.

The officer advised John to go home and John started

Later in the evening John again appeared on the Strand and it was evident that he had accumulated a still heavier cargo of joy water.

Again the officer advised John to go home, and John started

It might be added that up to this time John still wore his new "lid."

Still later in the night John again appeared and this time he had such a cargo aboard that he was using vile language and creating such a disturbance that the officer placed him under arrest and took him to the city lockup.

The last appearance of John was marked by the fact that his Easter hat was missing.

After hearing the testimony of the officer the court imposed the fine mentioned, which John paid.

"OUT OF THE DRIFTS."

Federation Benefit Play to be Given Next Week.

On Tuesday next, at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium, and on Wednesday next at the opera house, Marguerite Clarke, the charming, winsome little actress, will appear on the screens in her new and absorbing play, "Out of the Drifts," which will be a benefit performance for the Federation of Women's Clubs. This Alpine drama is full of intense human interest and dramatic effects. Marguerite Clarke, who has proven such a favorite with Kingston audiences, and with whom they have smiled and sighed, will appear as Elise, the pretty, unsophisticated shepherdess of the Alpine hills. The courage of the little maiden is shown in her battling with the elements. Caught in her cabin, by a great avalanche, she is fearless before man and her maker. The three men so closely brought into her life are her father, whom the avalanche kills in the St. Bernard Pass, and who is brought home to her by Rudolf, the guide, whose love for Elise is deep and genuine. A profligate young Englishman, seeking the Alps for a place of recuperation, falls as much in love with Elise as he is capable of falling in love with any human being other than himself. She in her innocence believes him what he says he is. Rudolf recognizes him at his real worth, and saves Elise from a run-away marriage, or worse with this man, whom for his villainy Rudolf has no regret as he goes over a precipice. But the stranger does not die, and in his injured condition he is taken to the home of Elise to be nursed back to health Again his treachery shows itself, and again Elise is rescued by Rudolf, whose unselfish devotion finally gains its best reward. In the end, even "Regie," recognizing the purity of Elise and the sincerity of Rudolf, determines to change his own life. The scenic effects in this play are most remarkable and new, and Marguerite Clarke, who counts among her supporters William Courtney, Jr., appears at her best and loveliest. The ladies of the Federation will sell tickets for all of the performances at 25 cents each, the extra 15 cents going toward the Federation work.

HEART OF DUBLIN, SCENE OF REVOLT.

This picture shows Sackville street, Dublin, with the arrows pointing to the general post office and the famous O'Connell monument, where much bloody fighting occurred when Irish revolutionists seized the post office and other important positions. The insert is a picture of Sir Roger Casement, the Irish leader and German propagandist, who was captured and his ship bearing arms and ammunition to the Irish rebels from Germany, sunk off the Irish coast. It is thought the uprising was timed with the expected arrival of Casement and his ship.

WILLIAM PIKE and ANDERSON ROBSON

EDWIN MILTON ROYLE, author of "The Unwritten Law," "The Squaw Man," etc., says:

"Beatriz Michelena's work on the witness stand in 'The Unwritten Law' is the most real and convincing emotion I have seen in picture art. Real grief, as we know, is grotesque and distressing, if not ludicrous, but Miss Michelena's is so restrained, so free from exaggeration, that it approaches artistic perfection. It is a great triumph." "The Unwritten Law" is shown in seven acts.

GERMAN PRISONERS UNDER BRITISH GUARD.

One of them, a man with a frank and intelligent face, acting as spokesman, said:

"We all feel that the end is approaching, not so much because Germany is short of men—there are still plenty of reserves, I believe—but because the sufferings of the people at home are becoming unbearable and they do not understand what we are fighting for.

"It is gradually beginning to dawn upon them that all our victories are to count for nothing and that we must not only give up what we have won, but even more, in order to get the peace the whole German people is sighing for."

TALKS ON HEALTH.

Prof. Munter at the Three Acre Store is Instructive.

The corset demonstrations being given in Carl's store by Prof. Charles Munter, inventor of the Nulife corsets, and the instructive lectures on physiology which accompany them are drawing large crowds to the three acre story daily. All this week the demonstrations have been given and will be given every afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock the rest of the week in the basement of the store, where a section has been devoted to the lecturer. Many valuable health hints can be gleaned from this free source and the women of the city are showing great interest in the talks. Twelve dressing rooms have been made for the event. Prof. Munter has lectured in some of the largest stores in the country—in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, and his patent has an extensive sale.

The lecturer himself was once of a weak body and lays his present solid frame and well-developed chest to deep breathing and the proper poise of the head. He reminds his audience of the warning which they learned in their school days that when the head is not correctly carried and the body is in a careless position the spine is affected. He blames sickness to improper breathing in that it affects all the organs of the body. Cold water should be drunk only when the person is doing physical labor, according to the professor. He says that warm water should be drunk and he compares the human system to an engine which cannot run if the boiler is not filled with hot water.

RECEPTION GIVEN PASTOR SNYDER

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, the congregation of the Church of the Redeemer tendered their beloved pastor, the Rev. Howard E. Snyder, a farewell reception on Wednesday evening. The Sunday school rooms in which the reception was held, were tastefully decorated with cut flowers. Easter lilies predominating, while above the speaker's platform hung a picture of Dr. Martin Luther and two American flags.

PASTOR SNYDER.

Long before the hour set for the reception, the people began to gather until the Sunday school rooms were filled with over 400 people, among whom were many from other denominations. At 8 o'clock Pastor Snyder and his wife made their entrance and were greeted with loud and prolonged applause.

The speakers of the evening were the Rev. Dr. Ellis, of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. J. Frederick Bermon, of St. John's Lutheran Church, Poughkeepsie, both of whom spoke feelingly of the attachment of the congregation for their pastor, and paid a glowing and well deserved tributes to the great work Pastor Snyder has done at Kingston and elsewhere. Pastor A. Schmidtkonz, of the German Lutheran Church, owing to the Easter concert held in his church, was unable to be present, but sent a letter that was read, expressing his regrets for not being able to be present and his sympathy to the congregation in the loss of their pastor.

After the speakers were finished speaking, a musical program was rendered by the choir and various members of the choir. Two of the most pleasing selections rendered were "Winter is Gone," a trio, sung by Messrs. Pierson, Latour and Miss Elizabeth Rieser, and a "Venice Boat Song," sung by Mr. Latour and Miss Rieser.

At the conclusion of the program, C. J. Heiselman, chairman of the reception committee, called Pastor Snyder to the platform, and in a few well chosen words presented him with a fell filled purse of gold and read the following resolutions, unanimously adopted by the congregation:

Whereas, we, the congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer of Kingston, Ulster county, New York, assembled in special meeting in the church building on the night of Thursday, April 20, 1916, by request of the Church Council to take action on the proffered resignation of our beloved and esteemed pastor, the Rev. Howard E. Synder, to accept a call from the Luther Memorial Church of Madison, Wisconsin, as University Students' Pastor, and

Whereas, we considered it our painful duty, through our great love and high esteem of Pastor Snyder, reluctantly to accept his resignation because we appreciate that his new pastorate will offer increased opportunities for performing greater work and mightier deeds in behalf of Christ and the church, and

Whereas, we realize how futile and useless must appear this material attempt to express our sincere appreciation of Pastor Snyder's work while with us, and the deep regret and great grief that his departure brings us, and

Whereas, it is our desire and wish to present to Pastor Snyder a written testimonial of our great gratitude and large affection in order that he may forever have in his possession an expression of our sentiments.

It is therefore resolved that we, the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, of Kingston, Ulster county, New York, pursuant to a motion regularly made and unanimously carried at the aforesaid special meeting, do hereby express our earnest appreciation of the noble and lasting work that Pastor Snyder has performed in our behalf and in behalf of God during his eight years as our pastor, in administering to our spiritual welfare, in advising and assisting us in times of doubt and distress, and in succoring us during illness and death.

By his ceaseless labor, his incessant devotion, his nobility of spirit, his acts of kindness, charity and Christian love, he has made himself beloved by us all, and the mention of his name will ever bring back to us memories that our pleasurable and good

None can lament the loss of him so much as we, and although our heads are bowed in grief and our hearts are heavy with sorrow, we surrender him to his new work with the true Christian spirit, believing that God's will be done.

We extend to Pastor Snyder and his family our very best wishes for health, happiness and success. May God in His goodness keep His watchful eye forever on their welfare and protect them.

To be presented to Pastor Snyder, to be printed in all Kingston papers, and to be spread on the minutes of the special meeting in full, as per motion.

Dated at aforesaid city of Kingston this 26th day of April, 1916.

Committee

Pastor Snyder in his response heartily thanked the congregation for their tokens of love and esteem, spoke of his eight years labor among them, of the new work that he will take up as students' pastor of the University of Wisconsin at Madison, Wis., and closed by speaking a few timely words to the boy scouts, who were present in a body in their uniforms.

Refreshments were then served, after which the congregation formed in line, and as they passed by Pastor Snyder and his wife spoke their words of farewell.

Pastor Snyder has done not only a great work for his congregation, but for our city as well, and his departure will be a loss to all who knew him, and loved him as pastor, chaplain and friend. Tonight a third reception tendered by the Young Men's Brotherhood of the Church of the Redeemer will be given to Pastor Snyder at the Hotel Stuyvesant, at 9 o'clock.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1567—Ladies' Jumpers or Over-Waist—Two Popular and Desirable Styles.

This illustrates a smart and pleasant fashion—one that may make a waist "two in one," for these jumpers can be worn over any guimpe or blouse. In black silk or satin, in embroidered net or voile, they are charming. They are nice in silk or serge to match the color of a separate skirt, and so worn over a waist of chiffon, crepe or net. The one style shown is gathered at the waist, and may be made with straight or scalloped lower edge. The other style has waist portions lengthened by peplum sections. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 1 yard of 44 inch material for No. 1, and 1¼ yards for No. 2 for a 36 inch size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

CRITICAL POINTS IN THE SITUATION

Possibilities of Action by Hyphenated Citizens That Keep Government Officials in a State of Worry.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 27.—International complications growing out of recent developments in Europe, Central America and Mexico today were causing the Federal authorities much concern. Sensational developments, it was admitted, may take place at any moment in the following situation:

Possible unneutral activities by Irish-American and German-American organizations.

A possible dash to sea by German merchant vessels now lying in harbors on the Atlantic coast should their owners be convinced that the German reply to the American note will be unfavorable. These vessels could clear regularly but their commanders might try to slip out without warning so that the Anglo-French blockade squadrons would not have notice in time to intercept them.

Possible violence against Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, and other leading British officials in this country as the result of the rising in Ireland and the probable impending execution of Sir Roger Casement.

Possible anti-administration demonstrations in certain of the larger American cities where there is a heavy percentage of foreign born population should the German government refuse to agree to the American demands regarding submarine warfare, thus precipitating a diplomatic break.

Additional wholesale arrests, believed impending as the result of information secured through the seizure of the private papers of Wolf von Igel, German agent.

A general recrudescence of unneutral activities against munition plants, steamships and similar organizations.

Officials very frankly admit that the present situation is loaded with dynamite. The department of justice and the secret service have pressed into service during the last ten days a large number of additional operatives and officials say they are now ready for any emergency that may arise.

CONVICT TO TAKE UP TRAIL.

Latest Chapter in Arnold Mystery at West Point.

Edward Glennoris, the convict in the Rhode Island penitentiary who insists he helped bury the body of Dorothy Arnold in the cellar of a West Point house, is to make the funereal trip again, with detectives from New York at his side. He will be required to start at the physician's home, in New Rochelle, where he says the missing girl's body was placed in an automobile, and to go inch by inch over the long trail that finally terminated at the basement grave near West Point. The New York police will ask the Rhode Island authorities to parole Glennoris in their custody until he has completed the trip he says he made with Miss Arnold's body.

For Frills or Nothing.

Editor Freeman.

Dear Sir:—Referring to front page article in Freeman of 26th inst., about Sleightsburgh bridge. Referring particularly to statement, "bridge plans made to satisfy engineers with artistic temperaments."

Beg to state that an engineer would cease to be an engineer the instant he lost his artistic temperament. He would suddenly join the ranks of the surveyors, a slowly disappearing race.

As citizens not only of Kingston but also of N. Y. state we should rejoice that the designing of state highway bridges is in such capable hands. Surely we of U. S. have long enough silently admitted the engineering superiority of less populous states such as the Swiss. If we cannot do right let us do without.

Respectfully submitted by
C. A. HUHNE.

Clothes Were Quickly Found.

The Freeman cent a word advertisements bring results as was shown when an "ad" was inserted in Wednesday's paper calling attention to a package containing a suit of clothes being lost between Rosendale and Kingston. The one who found the package read the lost advertisement and got in communication with the owner of the clothes which were quickly restored.

Central Rates Held Up.

The proposed new passenger fare schedules of the New York Central Railroad have been further suspended by the up-State Public Service Commission until June 1. Hearings on the road's application have been closed and attorneys for the objectors given time to file further data and written argument.

Does Newspaper Advertising Pay?

A large paint manufacturer asked this question of retailers throughout the country.

No. 9 Said:

"I think newspaper publicity a necessity to get the best possible results from an advertising campaign.

"It not only brings customers to the store, but when we solicit business it is much easier to sell a paint that has been advertised locally than one people have never heard of. I think it is money well spent."

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Young Centrals will hold their first annual dance at the Holy Cross parish house on Friday evening. Dancing will commence at eight o'clock and continue until twelve o'clock. Music will be furnish by McLean's orchestra. A large crowd is expected and a good time is assured to all those who attend.

A delightful dance was given at St. John's parish house Wednesday night by the Misses Ethel Rose, Susan Cockburn and Kathryn Diamond. Music was furnished by Muller's orchestra. Among those present were the Misses Ethel Rose, Susan Cockburn, Kathryn Diamond, Jane Hogeboom, Mildred Stewart, Edna Horton, Edith DuFlon, Maude Wesley, Ruth Gill, Beatrice Palen, Laura Cook, Helen Boyd, Caroline Oppenheimer, Elsie Stern, Mary Maynard, Marie Burns, and Messrs. George Muller, Thomas Roach, Clayton Elmendorf, Calvin Winne, Earl Snyder, LeRoy Port, Roger Gibson, Harry Ross, Arthur Hallinan, Eugene Gleason, Mathew Byrnes, Louis Schon, Louis Weber, John Dwyer, Roger Martin, Raymond Van Buren, Robert Adams, Harry Connelly, Edwin Koch, Nelson Smith and Henry Heustis. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. E. W. Sweeney and Mrs. E. A. Koch.

At the close of Wednesday evening's concert at Association hall, the members of the Mendelssohn club with their families and a number of guests enjoyed their annual banquet and smoker at the Hotel Gelder, where a substantial repast was served in the usual excellent style of the hotel. Music took the place of speeches at the close of the banquet. The club members rendered several excellent selections which were thoroughly appreciated, and solos were rendered by Flora Hardie, Joseph Mathieu and James Stanley of The Stanley Quartette, who had assisted the club at its concert, and by Thomas Dolan, one of the club members, all of which were received with merited applause. Mr. Mathieu also told a number of inimitable Dutch dialect stories and Miss Hardie captivated her hearers with several descriptive stories and impersonations.

Fully a thousand attended the Easter ball of Company M at the armory Wednesday evening. McEnelly, as usual, furnished the music for dancing which was preceded by a musical concert until 8:45 o'clock when the famous singing orchestra broke into the lively strains of a one-step. The music was such as they are noted for playing, being particularly good. These monthly events of Company M with McEnelly and his orchestra as the feature, has become more than just a dance in the dance life of this city; it is a recognized institution. The dance Wednesday did not suffer by comparison with the other dances held in years gone by. The great drill shed of the armory never looked better than it appeared last evening. Every person in attendance went home after the final notes of "Home Sweet Home" with an expression which read "We all had a dandy time." In order to accommodate the dance lovers of this city McEnelly's are coming back to the armory once more this season, appearing here on the evening of Wednesday, May 10, two weeks from last evening.

Herschmann in Milwaukee Oratorio.

Arthur Herschmann, baritone, who will be one of the noted soloists in the music festival to be given by the Kingston Symphony Society in June, has just sung the solo part in Haydn's "The Seasons," sung by the Milwaukee Musical Society at its four hundred and sixty-second concert. The society of some two hundred voices was assisted by other artists and an orchestra. Following are some of the press notices of Mr. Herschmann's singing. "Arthur Herschmann, baritone, sang several solo numbers in splendid style. His voice has the requisite resonant quality, and seems well adapted to oratorio singing." "Of these three artists, the last named, Arthur Herschmann, baritone, proved most effective, and the familiar aria, 'With Joy the Impatient Husbandman,' was pleasingly sung." "Of the soloists, Mr. Herschmann seemed to sing with the most discrimination and sense of Haydn's style; his work was very commendable and he was loudly applauded for his re-creation of the aria, 'The Impatient Husbandman.'"

Flanagan-Sinnott.

In the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, Edward Flanagan, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Flanagan of Market street, Saugerties, and Miss Marie Sinnott, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sinnott of Partition street, Saugerties, were united in marriage by Rev. James A. Talbot in St. Mary's church, Saugerties Wednesday morning, a nuptial mass being celebrated, and this was the first nuptial mass celebrated in the church in 35 years. The bridal party entered the church and proceeded to the altar, while Hugo Marbach, officiating at the organ, rendered the Lohengrin bridal chorus march, and during the solemn nuptials, Miss Lauretta Swart sang very sweetly and effectively, "Ave Maria" and "O Salutaris." At the conclusion of the mass the party left the church as the strains of Mendelssohn's march were being played. The bride was attractively attired in white chiffon taffeta, trimmed with rose pointed lace, and wearing a white tulle veil, ornate with rose pointed lace and clustered with orange blossoms. She caried a bouquet of white bridal roses and her only jewel was a gold rosary, the gift of the groom. The maid of honor was Miss Helen Flanagan, sister of the groom. She was prettily gowned in pink crepe de meteor, trimmed with blue and pink chiffon, and wore a large leghorn hat, trimmed with pink rosebuds and chiffon. Her bouquet was of pink sunburst roses. The groomsman was Leonard Sinnott, brother of the bride, and he and the groom were dressed in the accustomed black. The ushers were James Flanagan, brother of the groom and Edward J. Gordon, cousin of the bride. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Central Hotel, the home of the bride's parents and about fifty guests were present. A wedding breakfast was served, and at 11:12 Mr. Flanagan and his bride, amid a shower of confetti, left via W. S. R. R. for Boston, Mass., to spend their honeymoon. The bride's gift to the groom was a diamond scarf pin, and to the maid of honor, a rope of pearls. The groom presented the groomsman and ushers with pearl scarf pins. Guests were present from Albany, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Ellenville and New York. The gifts were a valuable collection of china, checks, cut glass, linen, silver, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan are popular young people and will have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Mendelssohn Club Entertains.

Always appreciating the generosity of the Mendelssohn Club in giving to their many friends each year a complimentary concert, every invitation was apparently accepted at last evening's concert, celebrating the society's fourteenth anniversary, at Association Hall. And throughout the entire evening the audience expressed its appreciation by the heartiest applause of each number, the singers generously responding for the most part with pleasing encores. The Mendelssohn men were assisted by the Stanley Quartet of New York city, Louise MacMahon, soprano; Flora Hardie, contralto; Joseph Mathieu, tenor; James Stanley, basso; Eleanor Stanley, pianist; and in their last number by Messrs. Mathieu and Stanley, and the following members of the Symphony Orchestra: Jacob Mollot, first violin; Edward Post, second violin; John Schick, viola; Bela Riccobono, 'cello; Robert Iserian, bass; Harry Maisenhelder, flute.

The program opened with a short musical invocation of the Muse, sung by the club, Charles M. Eastmead, conductor, and Emil Keuhn, accompanist. This was at once followed by a bright and spirited song by the club, "Jolly Fellows," by W. Rhys-Herbert. The quartet then sang Strauss's charming "Waltz, Greeting to Spring," with much of grace and excellent ensemble. Again the club sang, this time a group of two pleasing songs: "Sweetheart Awake," by Storch, and "Ashes of Roses," by Rosetta G. Cole.

Mrs. MacMahan, who has a sweet soprano voice, was so warmily applauded for her singing of "The Star," by Rogers, and "The Lass With the Delicate Air,' that she graciously sang a pretty encore. She was admirably accompanied by Mrs. Stanley whose accompaning throughout was excellent.

So well did the audience like Canning's "Song of the Viking," as sung by the Mendelssohn men, that the club repeated the selection in response to the applause. Part II of the program opened with "A Spanish Serenade," by Elgar, and "A Hong Kong Romance," by Hadley, sung by the quartet," after which they sang a humorous encore that greatly entertained their listeners. One of the best numbers sung by the club was "The Gypsy Trail," by Galloway. This was followed by "Sleep Time, Mah Honey," by Howell, sung unaccompanied. Miss Flora Hardie's two selections, "The Quest" by Smith, and "My Lover, He Comes on the Ski," by Clough-Leighter were followed by an encore number, "I Hear the Whispering Voice of Spring," Cadman, and "Come Away Elves," Morgan, sung by the quartet.

The most elaborate number of the entire program was Dudley Buck's "King Olaf's Christmas" sung by the Mendelssohn Club, assisted by Joseph Mathhieu, tenor; James Stanley, basso; and the quintet of strings and flute. This proved to be the best number sung by the club, and though the last was heartily encored.

Work on the Storm King highway near New Windsor is progressing and many men are being put to work. Two of these latter were recently induced to come up and work on the job from down the river points but when they looked things over they demurred, explaining that the contractor must have thought they belonged to Forepaugh's Circus, as they have to go hand over hand on a rope to get from their shanties to the work on one part of this job, and it looked too perilous for them to undertake. They returned to New York city.

Fire Near Flatbush.

Fire entailing a loss of between $3,000 and $4,000 Wednesday night destroyed a barn, wagon house and cider house on the farm occupied by the Rev. George Sheehan, just north of the Flatbush Church at Flatbush. The blaze is believed to have been of incendiary origin as when discovered shortly after 11 o'clock the flames were just spreading to the straw in the barn from a shed several feet above the ground. The Alpha Brick Company is the owner of the property. Two horses were burned but most of the livestock was saved. The fire lighted up the sky so that the glare was visible for miles. It was said that some trouble had been had by the owner with some residents in that vicinity.

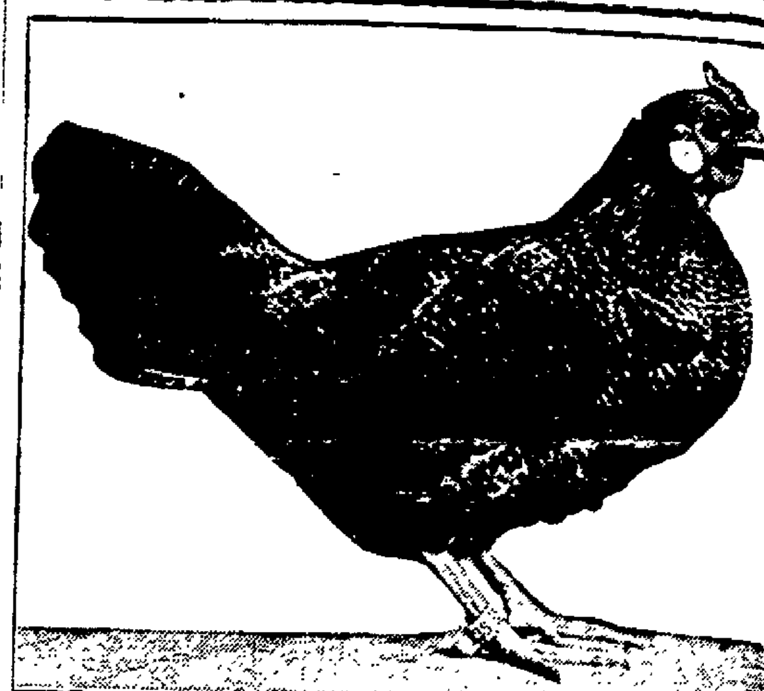
SECURE FOUNDATION FOR POULTRY FARM



Madame Chic, Prize-Winning Golden Pencil Hamburg.

A poultry farm built on a secure foundation is sure to be successful if afterward properly managed. It is not only necessary to make the right kind of start, but the work must be regularly and faithfully performed, day in and day out.

As a rule, beginners start with great enthusiasm, and not a few build air castles, but to many of them the sameness of the work, the close application, the constant watching, soon become monotonous, and then there is a shirking of duty, neglect, carelessness—and the enterprise becomes a failure. The point is to begin small—measure the size of the initial step with the amount of capital and experience at hand.

It is often the case that men with more or less available capital practically put all their money in houses and stocks. This is a mistake, and more so in the case of those who have had no personal experience of the work.

In the parlance of today, "A man must be on to his job." He must know what to do and how best to do it. He must be aware that inexperience may cause leaks, and leaks will soon sink the enterprise.

It is a noteworthy fact that the most successful poultry farms of today are those that have started from a small beginning and gradually expanded as business and experience warranted. Men who could not get into the dry goods busienss for the reason that "they knew nothing about it" will build poultry houses and stock them, and expect the hens to do the rest.

Hens, like cows, yield a profit according to the treatment given them. They will not stand neglect. They are hard workers when properly rewarded, but can be most idle and indifferent producers when made to shift for themselves.

Our agricultural colleges have done much to teach the new aspirants how to tread in poultry paths, and men and women who endeavor to improve by these excellently arranged courses of instruction will have won half the battle—the other half naturally belongs to practical experience.

A man with $1,000 had better invest one-half of it in buildings, stock and fixtures, and reserve the other half for feed and running expenses than invest the whole amount in the equipment and have to go in debt for the feed.

Eggs and poultry are staple crops, and the demand is far greater than the supply. This country needs more poultry farms, and they will be successful when properly built and managed. But the beginning must be small and the growth gradual, so that every part of the work is properly noted and correctly performed.

KEEP EGGS FOR FUTURE USE

Water-Glass Solution Is Recommended by Poultry Expert of Missouri Agricultural College.

(By C. A. WEBSTER, University of Missouri, College of Agriculture.)

Eggs preserved in the water-glass solution will keep almost perfectly for several months. They will poach nearly as well as fresh eggs although the taste is a trifle more flat after long storage. These are the conclusions of the Missouri college of agriculture after a careful investigation of various methods of storing eggs for winter use.

Water-glass is purchased in liquid form. Druggists commonly retail it at twenty-five cents a quart, and one quart is enough to preserve twenty dozen of eggs. For this number a five gallon stone or earthenware crock is the most satisfactory receptacle. Heat ten quarts of water to the boiling point and allow it to cool. Then pour the water into the crock, add one quart of water-glass and mix the two. The solution is then ready for the eggs. Place the eggs in the water-glass solution each day as soon as they are laid. Use only naturally clean, not washed, fresh eggs. When the crock is filled to within two inches of the top of the solution, cover and store in a cool dry place until winter.

By this method eggs may be stored during spring and summer when they are relatively cheap and production is high, for use during winter when prices are high and production is low. Farmer and townsman alike may save many dollars by this method of cheap storage of eggs. It is of the greatest importance that the eggs used should be absolutely fresh. Water-glass will not make bad eggs good, but will keep good eggs from becoming bad.

Incubator Essential.

Keeping the temperature as even as possible is one of the first essentials with the incubator chicks. Sudden changes from heat to cold, and overfeeding, are causes of bowel trouble.

Attention for Hen's Nests.

Be sure you have plenty of nests, well supplied with litter, including some tobacco stems or dust to keep vermin away. Hen comfort helps the egg basket wonderfully.

Keep Windows Clean.

Keep the windows in the poultry house clean. Rub them repeatedly with old newspapers. Sunshine in winter is the greatest of tonics.

Setting a Turkey Hen.

Do not place eggs under the turkey hen the first days she shows signs of broodiness. Better wait a while, because she is apt to change her mind.

Chickens Fond of Milk.

Milk is good both as an egg and a meat-growing food, and the chickens are fond of it.

DISCARD EGG-EATING FOWLS

One Broken Egg Will Frequently Start Whole Flock—Place Nests in Some Secluded Spot.

(By C. S. ANDERSON, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

No flock of chickens will prove profitable if they are consumers of their own products. Egg eating is a vice which has ruined a great many flocks of laying hens. See that your hens have access to plenty of grit and lime and are given plenty of protein-content feeds. Bran, middlings, meat, milk, alfalfa leaves, vegetables and sprouted grains are all valuable in supplying the need of protein and succulent feeds.

One broken or soft-shelled egg will often start an entire flock in the habit of eating eggs. Furnish plenty of attractive nests to avoid crowding. It is best to have nests secluded and darkened and rather high up.

Some such device as filling an egg shell with ground mustard paste or red pepper will often break up the habit, but unless they are exceptionally valuable birds, confirmed egg-eaters should be discarded.

TREATING THE AILING HENS

Physic for Flock May Be Given by Placing Salt Solution in Mash—Tones Up System.

When hens go off their feed and you suspect that their systems need cleaning out, give them a physic, as you would a person. If it is a single fowl, a half teaspoonful of epsom salts may be dissolved in water and poured down its neck. For the flock or a pen the salts solution may be used to wet a mash.

It won't hurt the flock to have a physic once in two months anyway, whether they show special signs of needing it or not.

Destroying Disease Germs.

A solution of concentrated lye does the work of destroying disease germs in an old brooder, and it is also invaluable for cleaning poultry drinking fountains.

Keep Out Wind and Mites.

Tacking tarpaper on the inside of an old house will keep out the wind and make poultry mites uncomfortable.

Prevent Egg Eating.

If you don't want your hens to get the habit of eating eggs, give them plenty of work, fresh vegetables and a variety of grains.

Water for the Hens.

A hundred hens will normally consume about four gallons of water per day.

Bring Out the Eggs.

Warm quarters and the right ration will bring out the eggs.

Highly Excitable.

"Brown is rather an excitable chap, isn't he?" "I should say he is! Why, he almost got a stroke of apoplexy the other night while watching a chess tournament."

Life Is Mutual Hostility.

Our life is not a mutual helpfulness, but rather, cloaked under due laws of war, named "fair competition" and so forth, it is a mutual hostility.—Carlyle.

Life and Character Reading
APRIL 27

This horoscope shows that you are under the sign of Taurus, which covers all birthdates between April 19 to May 20.

A most auspicious horoscope for Jupiter, the "God of Fortune," is in the ascendent today. A child born today will achieve great honors in the legal or business world, where system is dominant.

Your birthstone is the emerald.

You have a tendency to be very extravagant. You like fine clothes and are proud of external appearances.

You will handle large sums of money and lose large sums of money through speculation.

Only a regular, daily round of work will bring you to lasting success, but routine is very difficult for a Taurus person to follow.

On this day you should search the Freeman Want Ads for a position as a salesman. Mercantile pursuits will be favored through The Freeman Want Ads.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 27.—After showing an uncertain tone and irregular changes at the opening today, the stock market developed a strong tone and at the end of the first fifteen minutes a majority of the important issues showed some moderate gains. The Mexican group was prominent. American Smelting rose 1¼ to 93¼, Mexican Petroleum, 1½ to 95½ and Greene Cananea a point to 49. Steel Common advanced ½ to 82¾, and fractional upturns were made in New Haven, Union Pacific and Atchison, Norfolk and Western receded ¾ to 123⅝ at the start, but recovered the loss in a few minutes. Anaconda gained ½ to 82 and Kennicott ⅞ to 55⅞. The specialties were in better demand. Baldwin Locomotive, after selling at 85¼, rose to 86½, and American Locomotive gained 2 points to 68¾. At the end of the first fifteen minutes a brisk buying movement was in progress throughout the room.

A strong tone continued to prevail in the late forenoon, with the railway issues in better demand than for some time. Union Pacific sold at 132⅞, Southern Pacific at 96⅝, Reading at 83⅞, Pennsylvania at 57, Erie at 34⅞, Atchison at 103, New Haven at 59 and Baltimore and Ohio at 84¾. Many of the industrials, including Steel Common, Smelting and Anaconda, were in good demand. Pittsburgh Coal rose ¾ to 27½, and Westinghouse a point to 27½. Maxwell Motors advanced 2⅞ to 73, Crucible Steel 2⅝ to 81¾, Baldwin to 87½, Mexican Petroleum to 97, Greene Cananea to 49½, and American Locomotive to 69½. Money loaning at 2½ per cent.

The railway issues continued in good demand in the late afternoon, but no further advances were made in those issues. The copper stocks became more prominent, Anaconda rising to 83½, and Kennicott to 56⅝.

The market closed strong. The railway issues continued in demand up to the close, with further advances in all the leading issues, Union Pacific showing a net gain of 3 points for the day and Reading crossing 86, a gain in all of 4 points. Steel common advanced to 83⅝ and the copper stocks advanced sharply, with Inspiration the most prominent of this group. The war order stocks were in secondary position, with Baldwin and Crucible the most active, holding their previous gains fairly well. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds strong.

Life Shaped by Thoughts.

A particular train of thought persisted in, be it good or bad, cannot fail to produce its results on the character and circumstances. A man cannot directly choose his circumstances, but he can choose his thoughts, and so indirectly, yet surely, shape his circumstances.—James Allen.

PICKING A LOBSTER.

Always Select One That Kicks and Struggles Vigorously.

When you go to pick out a lobster for cooking select one that kicks. Such is the advice Mrs. Mary C. Pickett gives in the National Food Magazine, the editor of which calls her the "lobster queen" and says she is the best known lobster broker in the United States.

Mrs. Pickett quotes the ancient Hebrew law against eating anything that has died of itself, and says that the moment a lobster is taken out of salt water it begins to die and its flesh to deteriorate. So the excellence of a lobster depends in large measure on the length of time that elapses between his being taken from the water and his being served at table. When a lobster moves his claws feebly he is nearly dead and, though not unfit to eat, his flesh will not be firm and tasty.

Keepers of first class restaurants have experts to select their lobsters. These pick them over as soon as received, sending some to be boiled at once and reserving others for broiling.

The finest lobsters come from the coldest waters, and Mrs. Pickett says those caught south of Cape Cod do not amount to much, their flesh being not nearly so firm as those from Maine waters.

The only way to tell if a lobster is in really good condition is by its liveliness. If it struggles vigorously, flops its tail and "makes wide open mit its claws," it is all right; if it is lethargic, opens its claws wearily and shows no sign of fight, it is dying and should be let alone, for it is not cheap at any price.

"The lobster," writes Mrs. Pickett, "should be boiled in the morning for use at dinner and kept in a very cold place, but not in direct contact with the ice, and it is better not to remove the meat from the shell until just before preparing it in any desired way."

Mystifying Chemical Trick.

A plain blue handkerchief is shown to the audience. When the handkerchief is warmed it turns white and when cooled resumes its former color.

Make a starch paste and add enough water to the paste to thin it. Then add sufficient tincture of iodine to color the liquid blue. A few drops will be enough. Dye a white handkerchief with this blue liquid, and when the handkerchief is dry it is ready for the trick.—Popular Science Monthly.

A large number of members of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F & A. M., turned out Tuesday evening to welcome Alfred D. Van Buren, district deputy of the Fifteenth Masonic District. This was the official visit and home coming of Mr. Van Buren. Delegates were present from Catskill, Coxsackie, Prattsville, Highland and other places in the district. No degree work was conferred and after the deputy was received a banquet was served the members. During the time the good things to eat were being consumed speeches were made by a number of those present. Past District Deputies Samuel Stern and James W. Feeter spoke and also the masters and past masters of the visiting lodges. Music was furnished by a quartet which was enjoyed and during the evening a deputy's watch charm was presented to Mr. Van Buren on behalf of all of the lodges in the Fifteenth District. The past master's jewel was presented to Harry P. Dodge by Kingston Lodge, No. 10. This was the last official visit of Mr. Van Buren as deputy as at the next session of the grand lodge which convenes next week his successor will probably be appointed by the incoming grand master. During the evening several checks aggregating $1,500 were handed in to Mr. Van Buren to be applied to the redemption fund of the grand lodge. Beside the officers who spoke during the evening Claude Heath, Roger H. Loughran, Samuel T. Clifton and others gave short talks. Brother John Schuhle of Highland was present and presented each of the members with a small individual bottle of his grape juice.

After a Bad Day.

If you are weary after a fatiguing day, on reaching home take ten minutes' rest lying prone on the back. When you rise cleanse the face with cold cream, rubbing lightly across the lines and in an upward direction to correct sagging of the muscles. A cloth wet in very hot water should then be applied, followed by several applications of cold water. You will be surprised to find yourself quite rejuvenated.

HOW TO CHANGE.

When you are tired of, or dissatisfied with, the room, or apartment, or boarding house, it is high time to change. Don't stay in a place that does not suit you, for there are many good places to select from and the first thing to look out for is to see to it that your home is as you desire it.

The way to change your abode, or eating place, is to call The Freeman Want Ads to your aid. Read over the list of such offerings and then, if you see nothing that appeals to you, run a Freeman Want Ad of your own, stating the location desired and the kind of room, or apartment, and how much you wish to pay.

That's the way to change quarters—by The Freeman Want Ad method.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, April 27.—The Federal orphans who "horned" their way into Major League jobs this spring, seem to be doing quite well, thank you. They are encountering no real trouble in their efforts to belt the offerings of the rival hurlers and some of them are playing afield in a way that overshadows the achievements of their American and National League mates.

"Shrinking Violet" lammed the leather beyond the .400 mark during the first week of the campaign—a figure about equal to what he amassed in the Gilmore circuit during the opening week of 1915. And this must be remembered: Kauff this year is facing strange pitchers. Last year he was acquainted with the twists of the slabmen.

Roush, Rariden, Magee, Chase, Louden, Konetchy, and the bulk of the other Feds now cavorting on Johnson and Tener soil, are playing beyond their Federal League form of 1915. What does this mean? Can it mean anything else than that there were some players in the 1915 Fed circuit in 1915—as we contended—who were superior to some organized major regulars?

Oh, yes, it is early in the season—and the Fed players may slump. But isn't it logical to assume that the more they become acquainted with the pitching in their new league the better they will bat? And shouldn't they kill more hits when they learn where to play for the opposing batsmen?

The Feds were generally spoofed at a year ago. They were classed by many as minor leaguers. Ours was a different belief and we feel that when the 1916 averages are compiled they will show that the great majority of Feds now in major league uniforms acquitted themselves of the "busher" charge.

Young's Record Not in Danger.

Cy Young's sterling pitching record may endure for all time. Only one pitcher in the game today—Christy Mathewson—had a chance to eclipse it. But the sun seems to be setting on Matty's major league pitching life—and, wonderful as is his work, it cannot compare with that of the old "war horse."

Young survived the terrific pace of 22 campaigns. He quit the game along in 1910 or 1911 and retired to his farm after having taken part in 819 combats. Of these he won 508, giving him a grand pitching average around .620 for the entire period.

At the end of the 1915 season, Mathewson's record showed that over a stretch of 16 years under the big canvas, he had worked in 614 games—205 less than Young figured in. To equal Young's record in games pitched, Mathewson must remain in the majors at least six years longer—a seeming impossibility.

Mathewson has won 368 and lost 185 of his games. The others did not figure in his won or lost columns. Matty's grand average to date is .665. Even should he by some miracle remain in the major league spotlight until he has pitched more games than Young, it is beyond the range of probability that he can win 69 per cent of the remaining games. And that is just about what the weakening arm must accomplish to beat out the record of Young.

When one compares Young's record with that of Mathewson and the other great pitchers of today, there comes the full knowledge of what an amazing twirler was "old Cy"—a hurler whose like may never again illuminate—and glorify—the baseball world.

Real "Outlaw" League.

A baseball league is operating in Massachusetts that is not under the domination of organized baseball. It's an organization operated within the precincts of Charleston prison, in Boston, and the players are convicts.

The two class teams of the circuit are known as the Red Sox and Braves. They are the "crack" nines and those who have seen the rival machines in operation say they work with faultless precision. The players on these clubs average 25 years in age.

The field is the prison yard. It is rather small for baseball, but it serves its purpose in a way that is satisfactory to the spectators and combatants. The prisoners, in their "leisure," remove pebbles and roll the diamond, keeping it in good shape.

The regular season opens in April and closes in October—a la big league. The "major" teams play on an average of once a week. The battling in 1915 ended in a draw. Each team had won 12 games when the season closed. An extra game was played to decide the championship, but it ended in a tie.

HOBEY BAKER.

HOBEY BAKER TO RETIRE NEXT WINTER.

Hobey Baker, the greatest amateur hockey player ever developed in this country, will make his last start in the popular Canadian ice sport next winter if he lives up to his present plans. The former St. Paul's (Concord) and Princeton star will hang up his hockey skates after next winter's championship campaign, and no more will the hockey enthusiasts be able to howl their delight as Hockey worms, turns, dodges his way up the ice to the discomfiture of the opposing teams. Baker has been playing hockey for more than ten years, and he feels that after next winter's campaign he will have had enough of it. That's the reason he intends to give up playing the game at which he has won international fame.

Baker is unquestionably one of the greatest all around athletes in the country. Besides his uncanny hockey ability, Baker is a rattling good football player. He served three years on the Princeton Varsity. He can sling the basketball with the best of them and is also an expert swimmer and tennis player. It has been said, too, that had Baker gone into track athletics he would have been another Ted Meredith.

LITTLE JOURNEY TO BIG MACHINE SHOP

Chamber of Commerce Directors See the Wonders of the Universal Road Machinery Plant and Get a Lesson in Efficiency.

The Chamber of Commerce directors began their 1916 series of "Little Journeys to Kingston's Business Enterprises" most auspiciously on Wednesday afternoon when they paid a visit to the plant of the Universal Road Machinery Company. To a number of those who made this "journey" it was in the nature of an exploration and discovery trip, as the plant had never before been visited by them and they were surprised at its size and completeness. Especially did the effectiveness of the "efficiency engineering" plans of the general manager, R. E. Leighton, who is president of the Chamber of Commerce, impress the visitors and it was the general opinion that if Mr. Leighton could instil as much efficiency in the minds of the Chamber of Commerce directors as he has in the operation of his manufacturing plant, there would be no question of the future usefulness of the Chamber of Commerce being many times greater than it has ever been in the past.

The visitors were shown through the plant by Mr. Leighton and President Chauvenet and every detail explained to them. They saw machinery in process of construction and completed and in operation. A new crusher that almost pulverizes the rock and that is to be tried out soon to crush ore was seen in operation as was the huge machine that will take any size stone up to 15 by 30 inches and crush it as easily as though it were being fed peanut shells. This machine weighs 40,000 pounds and the fly-wheels weigh 4,000 pounds each.

Lathes working on rough steel that cost $26 a ton a year ago and now costs $55 were seen and the visitors were shown tool steel that a year ago could be bought for 55 cents a pound and that now costs $3.50, giving them some idea of the way the cost of production has been advanced in the last year.

Then there was the "porcupine," a scarifier to tear up an old road, and rollers to roll it down again with, a trip hammer of tremendous power and a shears that cuts steel as readily as the ordinary scissors cuts paper, punching machines, planes, borers and other crunching, whirring things that were enough to drive one not mechanically inclined crazy. Some day The Freeman may send a real reporter to the plant to spend a day there and write an intelligible and detailed description of it.

Among those present were George Burgevin, David Burgevin, Peter Barmann, George D. Beckwith, Herbert Carl, Ralph D. Clearwater, A. E. Dederick, S. E. Eighmey, Max Greenwald, Louis Hoysradt, Gilbert F. Kennedy, John B. Kearney, John Larkin, Jacob Owen, Addison D. Pardee, Edward T. Stelle, John E. Mack-Canfield.

Next week the Barmann brewery will receive the attention of the members.

NEW NEWSDEALER.

Frank McNally Buys the Moore Stand on Broadway.

Frank McNally of 69 Gill street, who for the past 26 years has been employed as bookkeeper for William J. Turck and later for the William J. Turck Company on the Strand until their place of business was burned on December 30 of this year, has bought the news stand of George W. Moore at No. 580 Broadway.

Mr. McNally took over the business today and Mr. Moore will retire from the business. For the past three years Mr. Moore has run the confectionery store and news stand and done a very successful business. Before Mr. Moore took over the business it was conducted for several years by Mrs. Mary McCall, who is now engaged in business on Hasbrouck avenue. Mr. McNally will continue to run the business as a news stand, confectionery and cigar store and sporting goods place.

Mr. McNally has a wide circle of friends throughout Kingston and Rondout and will make a success of the business. Several alterations will be made to the store and a full line of goods put in to meet the demand of the general public.
